CAMDEN

On Monday, Sept. 2 will be the first meeting of Seaside Chapter, O. E. S. after the summer vacation. It will be Past Masters' night, and they will confer the degree on one candidate. A supper will be served at 6.30 and after the work there will be a social dance. All members please take notice, and sojourning members are cordially invited.

There will be a Republican rally Thursday evening opposite the postoffice. E. E. Burpee of Rockland will speak to the voters on county issues and Thomas Leigh of Augusta, one of Maine's most talented speakers, will discuss state issues. Music by the Camden Band. The rally will be held at 7.30 and everybody is cordially invited.

The second meeting of the Baptist Calendar Club will be held at the Baptist vestry Friday evening of this week. A fine entertainment will be given and refreshments served. A pleasant social time will be enjoyed. Every member should be present.

Camden people interested in a Cemetery Improvement Association are invited to notify the Camden Herald. The idea of such an organization is to have our cemetery cared for in a systematic and effective manner. Such an organization could recommend improvements after an intelligent study of conditions, have the care of the improvements that are regularly made by the town, receive contributions that might be made for the benefit of the cemetery and more especially it would be an important factor in arousing an interest in the beautifying of the cemetery and work to have proper care given to neglected spots.

The improvements of the Camden National Bank are now all completed but the frescoing. The removal of the old stairway has greatly added to the available room in the lobby of the bank and the new window gives much additional light. There is also chance for more desk room. The customers of the bank find this additional light and room a great convenience. The new floor is the first handsome with mosaic tiling, the first that has been used in town. In the rear room, two booths, roomy and convenient, have been fitted up for the use of patrons, for cutting coupons and for handling private papers. These changes not only greatly improve the appearance of the bank, but add much to its up-to-date equipment.—Herald.

CRAVING CONE
IN 36 HOURS.

"I drank steadily for years from three plates to two quarts of whiskey daily. One sanatorium discharged me after six weeks as incurable. After 26 hours of the Neal treatment, my craving was gone. Have worked hard ever since."—From a genuine letter among the scores we can show you, proving absolutely that the can be overcome by the NEAL 3-DAY TREATMENT. No hypodermics, no tonics, absolutely certain. Call upon, address or phone me a Republican who voted "Yes." I am a Republican who does not believe in constitutional prohibition should live or die. Answer, we say, and cease assertion and half truths. What man of this Democratic brigade or reform raised his voice in protest? This Democratic administration, from his Excellency down, was afflicted with a sudden and complete paralysis of the vocal organs.

Drug Habits Specially Treated with Great Success.

"Worse Than No Law,"

"Is a Law Not Enforced," Says Judge Maher in Splendid Vinalhaven Speech.

"That the Democrats failed in the 'Yes' and 'No' campaign of 1911 to enter into any full and free discussion of the issues involved and that since then the Democrats have refused to abide by the results of that campaign and have failed to enforce the prohibitory law were the charges made by Hon. Benedict F. Maher, Republican in the 1911 campaign, voiced his dissatisfaction with the Democratic performances from the standpoint of an honest re-submissionist and his indictment of the Democratic party for its falsehoods and sophistry was fully as scathing as any that has been made from other viewpoints. He said in part:

Causes of Overturn of 1910

To form any accurate estimate of the real standard of worth, work and merit of the Democratic administration now adding for approval, not on facile promises but real performance, the voters should clearly and calmly gauge the real proximate cause of the political overturn of 1910.

You want to regard not the accident which occurred, but the circumstance which attended, not the fallacy which seeks to explain, but the real major, basic cause of that revolution and then test Democracy by the way it has met the issue, and by what it has actually done and really left undone. Faults of omission are as serious as faults of commission.

Courageous men, in the doing, oftentimes err but the courage of the victor compels respect. It is the craven crawl of the coward in public, as in private life, that ultimately wins the contempt that is its due. Above, beyond and over all, the dominant issue of 1910 was to my mind dissatisfaction from one angle or another with the Prohibitory Law!

Democracy had charged and truly charged, Republican multitudes in various sections. With a theme, which struck a great popular chord, they pledged every effort to the change of the Prohibitory law, but until such change, enforcement by regularly chosen officials. Have they made good? Answer, since questions are replacing slogans: answer, Governor, senators, secretary of State, any and all of the crew of the good ship Reform! When, by the aid of Republican votes in the 75th Legislature, re-submission of the Prohibitory law was accomplished and for the first time a generation the men of Maine had any opportunity to say by their ballots whether constitutional prohibition should live or die. Answer, we say, and cease assertion and half truths.

What man of this Democratic brigade or reform raised his voice in protest? This Democratic administration, from his Excellency down, was afflicted with a sudden and complete paralysis of the vocal organs. A Gumshoe Campaign

You saw a campaign, such as Maine never in its history has known, in which prohibition regardless of party did—as they honestly had a right to do and as they honestly should have done—flood this state with orators, so that no village too remote, no hamlet too small to hear the friends of Prohibition. What of the party pledged to change? Where were our reformers? A campaign for the "Yes" vote, such as no free government ever saw. Not a voice, not a speech, not a meeting by our valiant champions of reform and change.

You have a right to your opinion on any issue and you will concede to me the equal right. If I differ with you it is my right.

You honor the man who is ready to sink half his present reputation for the freedom to think and when he has thought, be his cause strong or weak, will sink to other half for the freedom to speak!

I am a Republican who does not believe in constitutional prohibition should live or die. Answer, we say, and cease assertion and half truths. What man of this Democratic brigade or reform raised his voice in protest? This Democratic administration, from his Excellency down, was afflicted with a sudden and complete paralysis of the vocal organs.

Hundreds of Republicans, I believe, voted as I did. To such Republicans I say, that the palsied performance of Democracy, pledged to change, and remaining silent should stamp this administration as grossly deficient in moral sense or grossly derelict in political courage! Take your choice. You stayed silent. Tell us why! Answer the voters of Maine, who wanted a change in the Prohibitory law, why you waited till the ballots were cast and the opportunity gone and then like some lad failing in a golden opportunity at his tasks sought a chance "to try it again"—more suggestive of child's play than the course of men in charge of the vital affairs of State.

Not a speech in August of 1911 on the "Yes" side of the Prohibitory issue, but rhetoric, bombast and gasconade at a special session, when efforts were obviously futile and empty. Will you vote for such a party in the clear, cold light of performance then or upon mere assertion and promise in the desperate now?

Cowardly Evasion

Don't, I charge you, take the prejudiced view of any Republican on this cowardly evasion of the "great issue." Listen to what the spokesman of Democracy, Senator Edgar F. Hanson of Belfast said on the floor of the Senate at the special session, of his party's record:

"Last fall the Democratic party got into a state of coma. It reminded me of the fellow they had ready to bury. Just as they were placing him in the casket he showed signs of life. He got up and they said, 'We thought you were dead.' He said, 'I know better.' 'How did you know you were not dead?' He said, 'I was hungry and so I went to the kitchen and I found a bone in the soup.' 'What party had cold feet, there is no doubt about that, and just left the one important issue before us to the names of the enemy. Had we put speakers through this state would have cast 10,000 more votes for the amendment? How do I know it? The city of Belfast three days before election showed that it remains upon the question which affects our lives and our property. I went to the State House and delivered the only speech on the 'Yes' side."

Inducted into office under the most favorable auspices of any young man in a generation and imbued with courage and a firm resolution to do full justice to his happy omens Gov. Plaisted in view and splendid phrase voiced his verse of the Prohibitory situation:

"A law not enforced is worse than no law, because it tends to bring all laws in disrespect and thus break down the public morals."

Duty of Officers to Enforce Law

Leaving aside the question of whether the present law affords the best regulation of the liquor traffic—a question over which there is an honest difference of opinion—there can be no question that it is the duty of every official to enforce the prohibitory law so long as it remains upon the statute books. For years we have been passing laws to please certain classes and failing to enforce them to please others.

In that same memorable address, better for him if never made, he later declared:

"The time is ripe for full, free and honest discussion and consideration of this question which affects our standard of citizenship and the well-being of all classes. We are dealing with a problem as old as the human race and confined to no country. We must be actuated solely by an honest desire to promote the welfare of the state and set our stamp of disapproval upon all alliances between those who would violate any law and those charged with its execution. In doing this we shall take no backward step in the cause of temperance, but rather advance true temperance."

Where was the free, full and honest discussion? Answer, Governor Plaisted.

Was it the duty of Democratic officials to enforce the law? Did they do so? If not, tell us why.

CRIEHAVEN

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Richardson of Boston are sojourning at Hillside Farm.

Mr. Jones left Tuesday for his home in Weston. He was loath to end his annual pilgrimage to this town.

Thursday night will be called the Criehaven "Exodus" as many of the summer people left us. Rev. Harold Haines and family regrettably turned the key to the entrance of their pleasant "Cro's Nest" and set their faces towards Mr. Vernon, N. Y. Mr. Haines' services at the schoolhouse have been very pleasant and uplifting. We missed him and his sister last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Cassens returned to Camden after several weeks at Surfside. Miss Wheeler returned to Rockland to resume her duties at Dr. Gould's.

N. H. Whitney and daughter, Dorchester, left for Medford, Mass., but are to spend a few days on the way in Portland.

Misses Wright and Wilcox returned to their Connecticut homes. During the closed season time does not hang heavy on the hands of our fishermen. The sound of hammer denotes repairs on buildings and on boats in the process of building.

Messrs. Crie, Dow and McClure are busy men these days.

Harold Foster of Boston University, 1913, is at Hillside Farm for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rhodes gladdened the hearts of their friends at Hillside Farm, by a brief visit last Tuesday. They left in the afternoon for Matineux, Mrs. Rhodes' former home town.

HOPE

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Barrett entertained the following guests last week: Mrs. Augusta Nichols of Round Pond, Miss Sarah Barrett of Flatbush, N. Y., Mrs. Adelia Thomas of San Jose, Calif., Baldwin Heal of Staten Island, Mrs. E. Howard Jarvis of Flatbush, N. Y., Mrs. Elizabeth Barrett, Miss Lizzie Heal and John Wright of Hope, and Frank Nichols of Bath. Three of the guests were past 80 and three past 70.

Mr. and Mrs. Estlin of State Island are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gillette.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Spencer of East Foxboro, Mass., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harkness.

Mrs. Eliza Demeritt of Natick, Mass., is the guest of her brother, Albion Allen.

Charles Lincoln of Waltham, Mass., is spending his vacation with his family at S. L. Bills'.

Prof. Gustav Kleene of Hartford, Conn., is spending his vacation with his family at Mrs. Cole's.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

Old-fashioned poetry, but choicely good.—Frank Walton.

The Red Thread of Honour
Eleven men of England
A breast-work charged in vain;
Eleven men of England
Lie stricken, and gasped, and staid.
Silent, but of loss that gnawed,
Their rock-built fortress well,
Some would have been made,
When the last soldier fell.

The robber-chief mused deeply,
Above those daring deeds,
"Bring forth at length be shouted,
"Bring quick, the battle there."
Let him look for ever,
Their souls, if Allah will;
But we must keep unbroken
The old rules of the Hill.

Before the Ghilzie tiger
Leapt forth to burn and slay;
Before the holy Prophet
Taught our grim tribe to pray;
Before second's lance
Pierced through such Indian glen;
The mountain laws of honour
Were framed for fearless men.

Still, when a chief dies bravely,
We bind with green the warrior,
Green for the brave, for heroes
One crimson thread we twist.
Say ye, oh gallant Hillmen,
For these, whose life has fled,
Which is the fitting colour,
The green one, or the red?

"Our brethren, laid in honour's graves, may wear
Their green reward," each noble savage said.
To these, whose hawk and hungry wolves shall Tear,
Who do deny the red?

Thus conquering hate, and steadfast to the right,
Fresh from the heart that haughty vendict came,
Beneath a waning moon, each spectral height
Rolled back its loud acclaim.

Once more the chief gazed keenly
Down on those daring deeds,
From his good sword their heart's blood
Dripped to that crimson thread.
On a more he cried, "The judgment,
Good friends, is wise and true,
But though the red be given,
Have we not more to do?"

These were not stirred by anger,
Nor yet by lust made bold;
Remember they thought above them,
Nor did they look for gold.
To them their leader's signal
Was as the voice of God,
Unmoved and unswerving ailing,
To a path it showed they trod.

As, without sound or struggle,
The stars unhurrying march,
Where Allah's finger guides them,
Through wonder purple and red,
These Franks, sublimely silent,
Without a quiver of a breast,
Went, in the strength of duty,
Straight to their goal of death.

If I were now to ask you,
To name our bravest man,
Ye all at once would answer,
They call him Mohrah Khan.
He sleeps among his fathers,
Near to our native land,
With the bright mark he bore for
Firm round his faithful hand.

The songs they sing of Rostum
Fill all the past with light;
If truth be in their music,
He was a noble knight.
But were those legends living,
And strong for battle still,
Would Mohrah Khan or Rostum
Have climbed like these, the Hill?

And they replied, "Though Mohrah Khan was brave,
As chief, he chose himself what risks to run;
Prince Rostum, lie, his forfeit life to save,
Which these had never done."

"Enough!" he shouted fiercely;
"Boon'd though they be to die,
Bind fast the crimson trophy
Round both wrists—bind it well.
Who knows but that ere I Allah
May grudge such matchless men,
With none so deck'd in heaven,
To the fabled flaming den?"

Then all those gallant robbers
Shouted a stern "Amen!"
They raised the slaughter sergeant,
They raised his mangled ten,
And when we found their bodies
Left bleaching in the wind,
Around both wrists in glory
That crimson thread was twined.

—F. H. Doyle.

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Rockland, SEPTEMBER 3, 1912.
I, the undersigned, being the publisher of the issue of The Courier-Gazette of August 31,

1912, there was printed a total of 4,000 copies
Before me: J. W. CROCKER

The voters of Maine are getting ready to repudiate the Plaisted-Pattagall administration. Reports from every part of the State give assurance of this fact. The Democratic papers may thunder in their headlines of the tremendous outpouring of the people to listen to the Governor's campaign speeches, but nobody takes any stock in what either the headlines or the Governor says. They are equally unreliable. A record of pledges broken and promises ignored has convinced the people that Mr. Plaisted is not the calibre of man who should wear the robes of Maine's highest office. Here is one of the more recent pictures of the sort of publicity that our State has come more and more to enjoy since the Democrats, financed by the national trust, took charge here. We copy from the Kennebec Journal:

Here is a spectacle for the people of Maine to behold!

An Augusta gentleman has received the following letter from a friend in Denver, Colo., dated August 24:

"In the window of every bar-room and dive in Denver is a large picture of Governor Plaisted and beneath, in large letters, is stated his views regarding 'Statewide prohibition'."

The Governor of Maine as a standing exponent of the rum traffic in other states!

The Governor of Maine used to promote, in the far West, a traffic that is outlawed in his own State!

The Governor of Maine, in argument and figure, for the promotion of an evil that is the worst enemy of humanity!

The picture of Maine's chief executive displayed in every bar-room and hell-hole in a great city as the figurehead of an unholy business!

Can the churches, the Grange, the Christian citizenship of Maine conceive of a more degrading, a more mortifying, a more shameful condition?

Does Maine hope ever to achieve the honor of having a Governor whose personal life and public acts and utterances may be used in the promotion of moral progress and human uplift?

Would not the people of this Christian State be proud, today, of a Governor whose picture and words could be posted in every church or school of a great Christian city?

Think of these things before you vote on September 9.

Both Obadiah Gardner and Daniel McGillicuddy are in favor of the Democratic tariff for revenue only. They should be defeated. No Republican should by his ballot help to send either gentleman back to Washington. E. C. Burleigh and W. B. Skelton are able exponents of the Republican doctrine of a tariff that protects the industries of the country and gives to laboring men the highest wages paid by any nation in the world. Mr. Burleigh and Mr. Skelton should be sent to Washington to help make laws in consonance with that platform. For that reason let us do all in our power to elect a Republican legislature that will choose Mr. Burleigh as Senator and let us elect Mr. Skelton as a fitting representative of the Second Maine District with its extensive interests in shipbuilding and manufactures.

"It is time," says the Suburban Life with truth, "that parents realize the immense importance of the reading habit upon the minds of their children. It is during childhood that lasting impressions are made. Childhood is the period of plasticity, the period of adjustment. 'Go with mean people, and you think like mean,' said Emerson. Read impure books, and books which give false views of life and character is blackened. Many a boy has taken his first step toward a criminal career from a bad book; many a girl has begun the downward way to ruin through the influence of corrupt literature."

Our readers should carefully consider the article in another column setting forth what is proposed to be done for good roads in Maine through the issue of bonds. Mr. Nelson covers the argument fairly and fully. At the election Sept. 9 the people are to vote upon the amendment to the constitution making the bond issue legal. The Courier-Gazette advises its readers to vote yes upon the amendment. There is nothing today under discussion of greater moment to the material welfare of our State than good roads.

Democratic speakers are denying that Governor Plaisted promised to enforce the laws. That's pretty thin. At least he took an oath of office. With him this apparently meant that such laws as suited him and his friends he would enforce and the others, so long as the liquor dealers of the country would finance his campaigns, would be winked at. But the people have found him out and next Monday they will throw him out.

True it has been a cold summer, but quite the opposite term would have to be applied to baseball in Knox county during the season just ending. Lots of the sport, some of it exceedingly "classy," has delighted those fond of this skilled game—the national game indeed if ever there was such a thing.

It is plain to see that the growing of turf on the Tillson Avenue map is an almost hopeless task. What the place needs is to be set out with shrubbery. Then in two or three seasons that would be one of the most beautiful spots in our city.

All out tomorrow evening to hear Congressman McCall, one of the ablest of Massachusetts Congressmen and a very entertaining speaker.

The best this fall
Is Sam McCall.

To the Voters of the City of Rockland:

Having received at the June primaries the Republican nomination for Representative to the next Legislature, it seems proper for me to state my position regarding certain matters which I believe to be of vital interest to the voters of Rockland.

First. If elected, I shall go to Augusta without having made a promise to any individual or corporation, except those which are herein made to everybody.

Second. I shall consider myself the representative of every citizen of Rockland.

Third. I will give my best efforts to promote the interests of all the people of my city, county and state.

Fourth. I promise that I will do anything in my power to help any citizen of Rockland, who may appeal to me as his Representative, when I am asked to do that which I believe to be right.

Fifth. I shall work particularly to promote the growth and prosperity of my city. Rockland is splendidly located to become a large manufacturing center. It has excellent transportation facilities both by land and water. It needs diversity of industries; and if we can get plenty of cheap power, manufacturers will locate in our city. Maine is the third state in the Union in the amount of its undeveloped water power. If this power can be developed and brought over transmission lines to Rockland, our problem will be solved. I believe this development can be secured and that the power should be kept within the limits of the state—that the corporations should not be allowed to take it outside the state.

In my judgment, based upon a careful study of the workings of Public Service Commissions in many other states, such a Commission should be established in Maine. Every company organized to develop water power should be compelled to satisfy this Commission that the bonds and stocks it desires to issue, shall have a proper amount of assets behind them, in order that the investing public may know that companies are not over-capitalized and that the securities offered are safe investments. The Commission should also have the power to require that sufficient depreciation and reserve funds shall be set aside each year out of earnings, to insure the upkeep of the properties and the payment of the bonds at maturity.

The Public Service Commission in New York began its work in 1909 and has accomplished wonderful results. The opinion of the people of the state, and, with few exceptions, of the corporations, is that the great powers of the statute have been wisely administered, and that a forum has been provided where differences between the corporations and the people will find a speedy and inexpensive solution, where the vested rights of corporations will be protected, and where attempts to utter false capitalization will find an effective check. In Maine, neither the people nor the corporations have anybody to whom they can go with their grievances. I promise to do all in my power to help get a Public Service Commission established.

The experience in states having such Commissions, has been that undertakings for the development of water power and the sale of electric light and power, have been readily financed when the securities offered have been approved by the Public Service Commission of the state. The banks of Maine show an abundance of deposits, on which only 3 1/2 per cent is paid. The bonds and stocks of public utility companies yield nearly double this, and the people of Maine will be glad to get an increased income when they know they can do so with safety.

Regarding the argument that a vote for my opponent is a vote for the Democratic candidate for United States Senator—if the Legislature is Democratic a Democrat will be elected; if it is Republican, a Republican will be elected; and the chance—I in 182—that the vote of Rockland's one representative will change the result, is so small as to be almost negligible. It does not seem to be a sufficient reason to change the vote of any man who would otherwise vote for me, as that would be to put this one act which, in all probability, would not affect anything or anybody, above all the other duties a representative is required to perform during the three months of the session, which do vitally affect the prosperity of our community and state and involve the expenditure of millions of dollars of the people's money.

If any man is to consider this reason further, he needs to ask himself whether or not he wants to help put into control of the national government a party pledged to the doctrine of free trade, reciprocity with Canada and all the other isms advocated by the Democratic party, which would inevitably tend to destroy the prosperity of our state and nation.

Respectfully yours,
EDWARD B. BURPEE.

AROUND THE EDGES

Governor Plaisted Issues A Distress Call in Washington—Case Serious If Senator Staples Doesn't Help.

Governor Plaisted made several speeches in Knox county last week, but was too busy in the county towns holding rebellious Democrats in line, to make any pause in Rockland. The Waterville Sentinel says that there were "nearly 10" present at the governor's Appleton rally, which indicates that the Sentinel either has a careless compositor or a new and conservative editor.

"At Washington a good audience was waiting," says the Sentinel, "and the governor allowed time enough to make a good speech." The Sentinel might have been a little more specific and told just how much time the governor needs in making a good speech. Hon. Lindley Murray Staples, who has already served notice that he wants Plaisted's shoes two years hence, the Washington war horse, would have been infinitely more interesting had he expressed his real views as to Gov. Plaisted's appointment of Obadiah Gardner for United States Senator.

Gov. Plaisted insisted that Senator Staples take the stump in Knox county predicting that it would go Democratic by 1000 should he do so. Inasmuch as Gov. Plaisted's plurality was around 1200 two years ago, this is the first real admission from Democratic sources that a slump is expected in Knox county. How much will his plurality fall to if Senator Staples doesn't come to the rescue?

At St. George the presiding officer was Hon. Franklin Trussell, who may have eulogized Plaisted for his attempt to turn the state over to the brewers, but nothing of the sort is mentioned in the Waterville Sentinel report.

Well, if it is necessary to pull Senator Staples into the game in order to give Plaisted 200 less majority than he had two years ago, the voters will draw their own conclusion.

BOOZE FOR FARMERS

A Form of Bribery Which Arouses Indignation in Northern Knox.

A Union correspondent writes: "The booze delivery from the county seat has been circulating very busily in this town. Hope and Appleton the past week, and men of high authority have freely offered their long-necked insults to hard-working farmers. Sometimes these bribes were greedily devoured; and in other cases were indignantly spurned. Has the politics of Knox county reached such a state of rotteness that candidates must seek reelection in this manner? Time for honest men to act."

Ivanhoe Commandery and the Ladies' Circle of N. O. G. C. will hold their annual field day and picnic at Penobscot View Grange hall, Glen Cove, Saturday, Sept. 7. Each member can invite one. Fish chowder and coffee will be served by the ladies' circle. Bring your picnic boxes. Dancing in the evening. Gentlemen 35c, ladies 15c. Music by Farnham. 71-72.

Twelve Good Reasons Why I Buy at Home.

- Because this is the place I make money and this is the place to spend it.
- Because my interests are here.
- Because the community that is good enough for me to live in is good enough to buy in.
- Because I believe in transacting business with friends.
- Because I want to see the goods.
- Because I want to get what I pay for.
- Because every dollar I spend at home stays at home and for the development of the city.
- Because the man I buy from stands back of the goods.
- Because I sell what I produce here at home.
- Because the man I buy from helps support my school, my church, my lodge, and my home.
- Because here is where I live and here is where I buy.
- Because the man I buy from pays his part of the city and county taxes.

Yours truly,

FALL CLOTHING

THE BEST TO BE HAD AT THE PRICE

OUR CLOTHING is equal to the best custom work, and far superior to most of the made-to-measure kind.

ALL CLOTHING made to measure is not custom tailored.

Many men have learned from experience that much of the loudly proclaimed "tailored" clothes are not as good as our medium grades ready to wear.

OUR AIM is, and always has been, to provide our customers with good style and serviceable clothing without charging them exorbitant prices.

This is the month of the Union fair. Plans made yet?

The Baptist Choral Association has its rehearsal Wednesday night.

The city council session to have been held last night was postponed to this evening.

The regular meetings of Edwin Libby Post will be resumed next Friday night.

Although there are no more real holidays until Thanksgiving, Sept. 9 and Nov. 5 are apt to make us forget the fact.

Thursday night dances at Crescent Beach will be continued all through September, commencing this week. Singleton's orchestra will furnish the music.

The young son of John Sofayer was struck in the head by a rock carelessly thrown by another lad, at Crescent Beach yesterday. Dr. Adams took several stitches.

The attention of voters is called to the fact that the polls will open next Monday at 7 a. m., closing as usual at 4 p. m. The earlier opening gives voting privilege to those who are leaving on the morning trains.

Ned May is attending the National Convention of Postoffice Clerks now being held in Boston this week. Over 1200 clerks from all over the United States will be present, and men of national reputation will address them daily.

Manager Rosenberg issues an invitation to all the members of the Board of Trade who were on the different committees for the Old Home Week celebration, to witness tonight's performance at Rockland Theatre, where the Old Home Week pictures will be shown.

The quadrennial weighing of mail in the New England States, which was delayed by the postoffice appropriation bill being held up by Congress is now on. The object of weighing the mail is to obtain figures for the postmaster general so that he can make new four-year contracts with the railroads for carrying mails.

The weighing will continue from Sept. 4 for 105 consecutive days. Bath is one of the 33 stations in the six New England States, where the mail will be weighed.

One of the important events of the theatrical season will be the international musical success "Alma, Where Do You Live?" which comes to Rockland Theatre with the original New York production, a Metropolitan cast of players and a special carload of scenery. The "Alma" waltz was pronounced by press and public to be the greatest musical gem since the Blue Danube. It crowded Joe Weber's Theatre for an entire week.

Millions of times by the various piano playing devices, for it is of the popular melodious sort that haunts one for weeks.

On account of the damp weather the fireworks were not sent off at Oakland Park as was intended, but will be given tomorrow evening if the weather is pleasant; if not, on the first pleasant evening.

You will find the best ice cream of all delicious flavors at J. H. Meserve's, Rankin block.

LABORING MEN'S HOLIDAY

How It Was Spent at Oakland, Crescent Beach and Ginn's Point.

Oakland Park, Crescent Beach and Ginn's Point drew large holiday crowds yesterday, and still there were enough people left in Rockland to fill the amusement places to overflowing.

Oakland Park cut out its long program of miscellaneous sports this year, and instead presented a first-class game of baseball, between Rockland and Camden as the opposing teams. Rokes, pitching for Rockland, had poor support in the first inning and four Camden men crossed the plate. After that, however, the game was a close one, the final score being 11 to 6. In the final score being 11 to 6. In the final score being 11 to 6.

In the afternoon Thomaston defeated Vinalhaven 7 to 4, playing its regular team with the exception of the pitcher. Feyler substituted in the absence of Frisbie, and surprised the natives. Vinalhaven had practically a high school team, with Geary and Jones as battery. The Islanders outbatted their opponents but were no match for Thomaston in fielding.

Nervous? Thin? Pale?

Are you easily tired, lack your usual vigor and strength? Then your digestion must be poor, your blood must be thin, your nerves must be weak. You need a strong tonic. You need Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. We believe your doctor will endorse these statements. Ask and find out.

If you think constipation is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. It will disabuse you of that notion in short order. "Correct it at once!" he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills. A mild liver pill, all vegetable.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT OCEANVILLE.

The 16th annual convention of the Deer Isle and Stonington District Sunday School Association was held at Oceanville, Aug. 21. Rev. Joseph Jackson presiding by request of the president, Rev. A. B. McAllister. The weather was perfect and there was an unusually large attendance, nearly every school in the district being represented.

First on the program after the opening was an address by Rev. S. C. Eaton was an address from Rev. S. C. Eaton, pastor of the Congregational church at Stonington, his subject being "The Boy Problem." In the order of business the report of the last meeting was read by the secretary, Mrs. L. W. Fifield, which showed that the session last February was small, owing to the bad weather. Reports of the schools was in order. Nearly all the schools were reported by an officer or member. Most of these reports were very encouraging. The report of the Deer Isle school gave the attendance 100 which made it the banner school. The election of officers for the ensuing year followed, which are as follows: President, Rev. Joseph Jackson; vice president, Rev. S. C. Eaton; secretary, Mrs. L. W. Fifield; treasurer, Vernon L. Small; general superintendent, Vernon L. Small.

At 12 o'clock all repaired to the hall for picnic dinner, where hot coffee was served by the citizens of the place. The afternoon session opened at 1:30 with singing by a choir of young women from the Oceanville school. Following, John F. West read a very interesting report of the "Boys' Conference" at Waterville last January, written by Robert and Donald McGuffie, students at Colby, and delegates for West Stonington school at that conference. At the close of the reading a committee was appointed to choose delegates to represent the Association at the next Boys' Conference. Rev. H. W. Collins read an interesting paper on "Wooing young folks to the church through the Sunday school."

The next paper, a couple of defects in Sunday school work, was read by Rev. J. W. Threlfall and was full of facts. After this came the "Temperance Round Table," presided over by Vernon L. Small. Dr. G. B. Noyes was the principal speaker and in an able manner presented his well known views on the subject.

J. F. West, C. H. S. Webb, Rev. Collins and Rev. McAllister followed with brief but well pointed remarks. Mr. Webb's was the shortest and most pointed, a quotation from Bill Nye, "There is a place for rum, but its proper place is in hell."

The eloquent closing words were given by Rev. Joseph Jackson from the text "Workers together with God." He said that we are working with God in all our work which is not sinful. No work he harder than teaching pupils at a certain age, yet it is a task that Gabriel might covet.

After a vote of thanks to Oceanville school for their cordial reception the convention adjourned to meet at Stonington Methodist church in February, the delegates being entertained by both churches of the village.

IMPROVING AN ORCHARD

What the State Did at Highmoor Farm is a Suggestion to Many Other Owners.

Bulletin 199 issued by the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station is one of a series which has been published under this title from 1891 to date. Previous to 1909 these publications were concerned with non-ecological data accumulated through cooperative experiments with individuals in different parts of the state. While of much value in certain respects the problems undertaken were of necessity not those of a fundamental nature, the solution of which may require a series of years. The purchase by the state in 1909 of Highmoor Farm in Monmouth for the use of the Station removed these difficulties.

The farm itself was well adapted to experimental work of this kind and the orchards originally contained 5000 apple trees. On account of neglect and mismanagement of previous owners this number had been reduced in 1909 to about 3100. A survey made in the fall of this year indicated that 10 per cent of these were in such poor condition that they should be removed. Later it was found necessary to remove somewhat more than this, reducing the number to about 2300 in the fall of 1911.

It is evident that orchard renovation was the first problem to be faced before the trees could be used for experimental work. Bulletin 199 is concerned largely with a report of progress in this line and contains much of immediate practical value to the orchardist. The conditions at Highmoor were no worse in 1909 than on many farms in various parts of the state. The orchards, which were then looked upon by the owner as an actual handicap on the farm, are now rapidly assuming a healthy condition and are beginning to pay a handsome dividend, although the real work of renovation was only begun in 1910.

Hence this publication should be in the hands of every owner or prospective owner of an unprofitable or neglected orchard who is interested in converting it into a profitable asset. The bulletin contains a description of the orchards when purchased followed by a discussion of the methods, manner and times of pruning, spraying, fertilization and cultivation.

Without seeing the trees before and after it is hardly possible to comprehend the increase in health and vigor which has resulted from the treatment given. One Baldwin orchard in particular which appeared in a hopeless condition when purchased has made remarkable progress. This and other features are shown by several full-page illustrations. One block of unthrifty, unprofitable trees which had already been transformed into a vigorous bearing orchard in condition for experimental purposes.

The changes which have taken place are well illustrated by statement of annual yields. In 1909 3100 trees produced 200 barrels of fruit, of which only 90 were marketable. In 1910 2300 trees yielded 350 barrels, of which 275 were marketable, and in 1911 the same number of trees gave 2450 barrels, of which 2336 were marketable. In this connection it is significant to note that 2000 barrels of these were classed as Fancy and No. 1, and only 330 barrels were placed in the No. 2 grade. It will be seen, therefore that not only has the yield been largely increased during the three years, but the character of the fruit produced has been of a much more decided gain both in appearance and value.

In addition to the above, an outline of some of the experimental work under way is given, and is annotated by mentioned spraying experiments with fungicides and insecticides, pasturing with sheep and with hogs, sod plots versus cultivated plots, fertilizer experiments, etc.

A copy of Bulletin 199 will be sent to any resident of Maine upon request to Director Charles D. Woods, Orono, Maine. To non-residents of Maine the price is ten cents, which must be sent in coin or other currency. Postage stamps are not accepted.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

DINNERS COOKED IN ONE BAG.

By M. Soyer, Chef of the Brooks' Club, London.

In my last article I gave menus for dinners for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday that could be cooked in one bag, the dessert, of course, excepted. Here I give menus that can be so cooked for the other days of the week.

Wednesday.
Let the dinner be roast and stuffed breast of mutton.

Take a lean breast of mutton four pounds weight, getting the butcher to bone it for you. Make a stuffing with two ounces of stale bread crumbs, a dust of salt and pepper, a finely chopped onion, and a minced dessert-spoonful of minced parsley, or, if pressed for time, a little finely powdered mixed sweet herbs. Add a good lump of dripping or cut a little fat from the thick part of the breast, chop this finely, and use instead of dripping. Bind if possible with an egg, or, failing this, use a little cold milk. Lay this mixture on the inside of the meat.

Roll as tightly as possible, tie into place with clean tape or string. Grease the bag well. Put in one pound of peeled and halved potatoes, choosing these all as nearly of a size as possible. Then put in the meat. Add the other and put in the rest of the potatoes. Put in bag in a very hot oven. Lower the gas half way (or push in the dampers), and cook for an hour and a quarter or an hour and a half, according as the meat is liked well over or underdone. Turn out, serve with a little red currant jam, if jelly is not possible.

Baked bread pudding will be found very acceptable after this. To make it, soak half a pound or more of stale bread over night in cold water. Then beat up with a fork till quite light. Now add to it an ounce of brown sugar, two ounces of well-washed currants, two ounces, ditto raisins, one ounce of candied peel, and a good lump of dripping. Beat up the mixture thoroughly. Sprinkle it thickly on top with brown sugar. Grease a bag thickly, put in the mixture, and bake for forty minutes. Open the bag, slip out gently, dust with sifted sugar and serve.

Thursday.
Chop the cold mutton left over from Wednesday finely. Dust it with pepper, salt, a little powdered sweet herbs, and add to it a large finely chopped onion. Sprinkle the whole well with seasoned flour. Add any cold gravy which may be over from the day before, and a couple of slices of lean flank of bacon and a tablespoonful of Worcester sauce, with the same amount of water. Grease the bag. Put in the mince. Cook gently for half an hour, turn out, and serve with baked potatoes.

A jam roly-poly pudding will be a nice finish to this dinner. It is too well known to need a recipe.

Friday.
A little fish once a week not only makes a nice change in the monotony of the midday meal, but is often a distinct saving both in health and pocket. Stuffed and baked haddock are delicious.

Make a stuffing in exactly the same way as described for stuffed breast of mutton. Wash the fish well and cut off the head; then put in the stuffing. Sew up the fish or secure tightly with white cotton. Grease the outside of the fish slightly, this to take the place of the "bits of butter" put on fish when the latter is cooked in the oven in the old way. Grease the bag well. Put in the fish and bake for from 20 to 30 minutes, according to whether two small fish or one large one is used. Slip out gently and serve with baked potatoes.

Dread macaroni will serve for a pudding. Take half pound of cooked macaroni. Add to it a little white pepper, from two ounces to four ounces of grated cheese, and a liberal two ounces of nut margarine, which is quite equal to butter in every respect, and contains no animal fat whatever. Grease the bag well with the nut margarine. Mix the macaroni well up with the cheese and nut butter, and put into the bag, and cook in a hot oven for ten minutes. Slip out onto a hot dish and serve at once.

Saturday.
On Saturday the housewife usually has a good deal of cleaning up and mending to do for the morrow, so she will need something which does not require much preparation beforehand. Here is a way to make a highly appreciated dish, will meet the difficulty, and there is no fear of it "catching" in the bag if she should chance to be called away for a minute or two.

Slice one pound of very fresh liver, dip each piece into flour nicely seasoned with salt and pepper. Put a piece of liver on top of eachasher of bacon. Grease the bag slightly. Put in the rashers and liver. Cook for twenty-five minutes. Open the bag, and slip out the meat gently onto a very hot dish. Put boiled potatoes round as a border, and pour the gravy over the potatoes.

Jam buns are a tremendous saving of trouble when the housewife is very busy on a Saturday. Get half a dozen stale buns. Split them open. Pour a little boiling milk or water over them. Spread thickly with golden syrup. Make very hot in a bag (greased). (Copyright, 1911, by the Sturgis & Walton Company.)

Mrs. J. N. Hill, Homer, Ga., has used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years, and says she always recommends it to her friends. "It never fails to cure our coughs and colds and prevents croup. We have five children and always give them Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for a cold, and they are all soon well. We would not be without it in our house."

REAL VALUE OF PLAY.

A Brief Period Snatched From the Regular Routine Aids Health.

Self-improvement societies that have tried to find the best way to live have never discovered anything more valuable than play, says Collier's Weekly. A man may shake up a continent by his energy or build kingdoms by his brains, but so far as his personal life is concerned he has been a failure if he has not learned to play.

Play, of course, is not confined to games. It may be a walk in the woods, a row upon the river, a sail upon the lake. To some men a garden is play, as to others is chopping wood. To play is to follow the irresponsible inclination which gives the most pleasure with the least mental strain and bodily wear.

Ideal play is a brief period of care-free living snatched from the regular routine. It is enjoying the pleasure of being alive; it is absorbing from the earth and air and sun without conscious effort. More and more we are trying to teach the children how to play, but we do not know how our selves. Before us always is the boggy of wasting time, and the devil of disease, old age, misery and failure never invented a false play. We send our children to the public playground and go on ourselves getting soggy and heavy and gloomy and nervous.

DISRAELI AS A SON.

His Generosity in Becoming Reconciled to His Father.

Lord Dufferin used to tell the following story about his mother and Disraeli:

My mother was among the first of Disraeli's acquaintances to recognize his great ability, and she saw a great deal of him when at Mrs. Norton's, when he was a young man about town. She did not see very much of him after he had once entered upon his political career. Here, however, is a little anecdote which is very characteristic and amusing. My mother had a great admiration for the "Curiosities of Literature" and was anxious to make the acquaintance of Disraeli's father, but there was a difficulty about this, as at the moment he was not on good terms with his father.

However, he appeared one day with his father in tow. As soon as they were both seated Disraeli turned around and, looking at his father as if he were a piece of ornamental china, said to my mother: "Madam, I have brought you my father. I have become reconciled to my father on two conditions. The first was that he should come to see you and the second that he should pay my debts."

Why Elizabeth Ordered Fish.

The connection between fish eating during Lent and a strong navy may appear remote, but to Elizabethan statesmen it seemed very real and vital. So much so that every one should eat fish on every day of Lent, as well as on certain appointed days throughout the year, under penalty of a heavy fine. And the reasons set forth for this enactment made no mention of religious observance. It was simply stated that the queen needed ships for the defense of the realm, and as not only was the fishing industry "the chiefest nurse for the bringing up of youth for shipping," but "great numbers of ships be used therein, furnished with stuff and men at all times in readiness for her majesty's service," the consumption of fish must be enforced.—London Chronicle.

A Bill That Wasn't Paid.

A medical man in France was asked to be present at a duel in his professional capacity. He got up early, shaved, dressed, and went to the place where the duel was to take place. He was slightly wounded. When both honor and wound were healed he looked for his fees and sent in a bill for $10. The patient replied through his wife, who wrote: "I am told that between men there is a question of delicacy which forbids even the slightest appearance of trade in such a matter. Neither the doctors nor the seconds are brought on the ground for money. If you persist in your claim I shall, to my great regret, be obliged to leave to others the duty of settling this fine point with you."

Domestic Repartee.

"You will remember," said she laughingly, "that you proposed to me four times before I consented to marry you. You wouldn't take no for an answer."

"I remember," he replied sadly. "It seems to me that every time you have changed your mind I've got the worst of it."—Exchange.

PALE AND SICKLY BOYS AND GIRLS

Youth is the time to lay the foundation for health. Every boy and girl should have plenty of pure, red blood and strong nerves. With thin, impure blood, they start life with a handicap too great to win success and happiness. Pure, red blood means healthful growth, strong nerves, a clear brain and a good digestion. In a word pure blood is the foundation of health.

The pale, irritable boy or girl, who has no appetite or ambition, is sleepless, always tired out, melancholy, short of breath and who does not grow strong, is the victim of bloodlessness, the greatest enemy of youth.

There is just one thing to do for these boys and girls—build up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. You can't afford to experiment with unproven remedies. Through neglect or wrong treatment anemia gradually develops into the pernicious form which is incurable. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills work directly on the blood, cleansing it and giving it just the elements which it lacks. As the pure blood goes everywhere, the entire body, every nerve, muscle and tissue, shares in the health-giving properties of the pills.

Mrs. C. P. Hanville, whose address is R. F. D. No. 2, Milan, Ohio, says: "I had been almost an invalid for years and was thin from my girlhood. I was anemic and my blood was turning to water. My heart troubled me a great deal and would beat so fast at times that I could hardly stand it. I became very weak and thin and was reduced in weight from 130 pounds to 90 and my complexion was yellow. My family and friends thought I was going into consumption. I was in bed for six weeks at one time and was unable to do my housework for over a year."

"I was told by a doctor that I was suffering from anemia and could live only a short time if I did not get help. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and soon began to have an appetite. It seemed as though I could not eat enough. My strength gradually returned and I had a good color. I gained 30 pounds in weight and have been well since."

A free booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent on request. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

NEW YORK OPENINGS

Some Interesting Things Which Our Milliners Will See There.

Only a small number of duplicate models were shown in a trip around the New York Millinery openings, a fact that gives a great deal of satisfaction. Full sway is given the imagination in regard to the colors, materials, trimmings and shapes of the imported models.

Contrary to the usual custom, many of the early hats are large, a new feature being the elongated hat, which has a decidedly long line from front to back. In most cases this polonaise hat, as it is termed by many, has the rolling turned-up brim, others of this type suggesting the large tricorne. While the derby hat is not shown at all in its entirety, still the Quaker hat, which promises to be very good for Fall, has a suggestion of the derby in its general appearance.

The rounded crown and brim, which rolls up against the sides, give the appearance of the old fashioned Quaker hat. Low flat hats have, in no way lost their popularity. The materials used for Fall in the development of these picturesque hats are softened by the use of tulle, net, tulle and velvet, shirred or put on plain on extended wire. The Mandarin model, which droops over the face and is raised at the back by the means of a lift or high bandeau, is very fetching and has a great many possibilities.

Wings, paradise, or in fact any high trimming, extends into the air from the center of the hat, at the base of which is shown a finish of fur, velvet or satin. A number of smart, irregular models are shown, a great many of which are small, either draped of velvet or silk, or the blocked hat of plush or velvet. Plush, by the way, is one of the strongest features used in the development of Fall millinery, and comes in a wide variety of weights and colorings; some of these are known as hatter's, beaver or velvet plush. While simplicity of trim is noted on many of the smart Fall hats, the tendency is slowly but surely drifting toward a more detailed amount of work on the hat-made hats. Small collars or bands at the base of the crown, shirred edges and many other points, which will develop later in the season, all go to show that the workrooms are coming into their day again.

There is no end to fancy feathers shown for fall, in a wonderful arrangement of colors and designs.

A Traveling Man Cured
P. B. Counterman, a traveling man of Joplin, Mo., writes: "Twelve years ago I was a great sufferer from stomach trouble. I tried nearly every medicine I could hear of, among them I used fifteen bottles of one popular preparation but never found anything that did me any permanent good until I took Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They have effected a permanent cure. It has now been five years since I took these tablets, and I have had no more stomach trouble during that time. I have recommended Chamberlain's Tablets to a great many sufferers with stomach and traveling troubles, and have met many of the boys of the road that are afflicted with disorder of the stomach as they have to put up with all kinds of half cooked grub at the different country hotels, which is one cause of this dreadful disease."

Taking a Chance

"It's little less than outrageous, Leslie, for you to squander your hard-earned money on a worthless lottery ticket," said Leslie's wife in a burst of indignation. "I haven't heard of anyone being so shallow-brained in years."

"Never mind, if $1178 wins you'll be able to buy all the luxuries your little heart craves for and I've always desired you to have. Don't be too skeptical but—wait—"

"I'd prefer any day to have the two dollars you've wasted for some real necessities instead of imaginary luxuries. A pair of gloves, a rug for the hall, silk for a waist, and a thousand and one things."

"Let's not quarrel over the money until we get it," broke in her husband. After the above conversation Mrs. Leslie tried to forget all about the lottery ticket, but impossible.

Meanwhile her husband, occupied with the cares of business, had forgotten completely about the little blue ticket. Matters of much greater import occupied his mind.

"Belinda," he said one night, "the bills for the last month are simply enormous. My income does not warrant these expenditures. There's more money going out than coming in. I'm either parsimonious, miserly nor stingy, but there's a limit to all extravagance."

Once Mrs. Leslie was silent; she simply smiled and kept on sewing. When she looked up she was startled to notice the slivery tinge to her husband's hair, how tired and old he looked, while she seemed to grow more youthful in appearance every day.

"Don't you feel well?" she questioned, anxiously. "Can a man feel well and happy?" was his curt answer, "when he's continually harassed with financial troubles."

The wife, wishing to end the discussion, proposed that they go to the "nickel show."

"Astounding that you did not suggest a box at the opera," grumbled her husband as he assented. "Mrs. Leslie finally threw all caution to the winds. She seemed to have been bewitched by the 'demon of buy.' The old portieres in the little parlor were replaced by elegant new ones, which made the parlor carpet appear so shabby in contrast that it was not long before a new rug adorned the floor."

Her comments of their friends were numerous. When they noticed the mahogany bookcases and the piano which had been purchased on the installment plan and Mrs. Leslie expected to pay for when the lottery money was distributed. "Mr. Leslie must have made a great deal of money," they said.

After three months of apprehension and anxiety Mrs. Leslie gave vent to his pent-up feelings. Opening the new-hatched desk to look for a pencil, he burst forth in a voice of anger, dismay and exasperation. "Bills, bills, bills, that's the only kind of correspondence in this house nowadays. None of them receipted either. I'll have to borrow money on my life insurance if this continues."

"Yes," answered Mrs. Leslie with tears in her eyes. But I figure it will be all right if we only have a little patience."

"What do you mean?" "It's rather inconvenient just now, but I fancy it will be all right when your lottery ticket comes due. Didn't you maintain vociferously that the lottery money would eventually pay for everything. Maybe then you can take a vacation and rest up a little."

"What college of your brain are these vivid imaginations?" said Mr. Leslie as he sprang to his feet, giving his wife one long look as if he had never seen her before. After a tense silence which seemed aged to his wife, he exclaimed, "The lottery money! What do you mean? I suppose it's a woman's prerogative to change her mind, but didn't you distinctly assert that you wouldn't touch one penny of that money?"

"Yes, but—"

"That's the reason why I never took the trouble to inform you that the drawing was weeks ago and your number was not among the lucky ones."

Mrs. Leslie turned pale. "What a foolish woman I've been," she said. "I thought so much about it that I didn't realize we could lose."

"Mother," called a sweet, young voice, "where are you? I've some wonderful, glorious news to tell you."

"What is it, dear?" she asked, as a young girl entered the room.

"Don't look so gloomy, mother mine," she replied, as she wound her arms around her mother's neck. "Bill Thorsen is coming tomorrow to ask father's consent to our wedding. Oh, I'm deliciously happy."

"I was not prepared for this great surprise, my dear, I didn't know how was even courting you," said her father.

"Oh, he's been coming here all winter. He said the parlor was so comfortable he simply couldn't stay away."

"Leslie," said Mrs. Leslie, taking her husband's hand, "it was a good investment nevertheless. Of evil good has come. If Bill, who is my ideal of perfection in a young man, hadn't enjoyed our parlor and felt the atmosphere of affluence around he might never have proposed to our daughter."

FAMOUS EPIDEMICS.

In Europe in 1348 the Black Death Claimed 25,000,000 Victims.

In the twelfth century not less than fifteen epidemics of disease and many famines carried off the people of England. The thirteenth century saw twenty plagues and nineteen famines while the fourteenth had a black rod of disease. In 1348 the "black plague" or "black death," which was brought into the country from the east caused the death of 100,000 persons in London alone, while in Europe altogether 25,000,000 people fell victims to its ravages.

In 1485 the "sweating sickness" appeared in England, causing great destruction of human life. It reappeared at various intervals for a century, thereafter. The last terrible visitation of the plague in England was in 1603-04, by which 100,000 lives were lost in London alone.

This epidemic was followed by the great fire of 1666, which destroyed 10,000 houses, including all the most densely populated portions of the city. The rebuilding of London with some regard to sanitary laws appears to have put the first check on the epidemic diseases that had previously devastated the population. — London Standard.

Whistles and His Door Opens.

There is in London a man who sure-ly must combine the two characters of a business man and an inventor to a remarkable degree. It is his custom to have his breakfast in bed, and, burdened with the trouble of getting out of bed for the purpose of unlocking his bedroom door, he has invented a door which opens by his whistle. He has accomplished this somewhat remarkable feat by means of a simple electromagnet which draws the bolt when a current passes through it, a platinum pipe and a piano wire attuned to a certain note. When this note or one of its octaves is sounded the wire vibrates in response, and this vibration brings it in contact with the platinum pipe. The circuit is thus completed, and a sensitive relay is brought into operation. — Chicago Tribune.

Puzzled.

An aged colored man was passing a fish store when he stopped to examine a huge turtle chained in the doorway as an advertisement. He had never seen a turtle before, and he prodded the strange creature curiously. Suddenly he popped his finger into his mouth with a howl of pain. After the finger had stopped bleeding he cried at it reproachfully, then eyed the turtle apprehensively. "What's the matter, Rastus?" asked the fish dealer, with a grin. "Nuffin, sah; nuffin! Ah was jest wonderin' whether Ah had been bit or stung." — Lippincott's.

The Artistic Temperament.

A famous singer was undergoing the ministrations of the ship's barber. "That we shall have the pleasure of 'earin' you at the concert tonight."

"No," explained the famous singer. "I've had a long and exhausting season in America and within a few days I am to open in London. I have decided not to do anything on this voyage."

"It's the same way with me," said the barber understandingly. "When I'm hushed, I never look at a razor."

To Stop His Laugh.

Lead-and-Oil

The lead-and-oil paints of a dozen different painters differ as much as the painters themselves. There is such a thing as a good lead-and-oil paint-job, and it wears three years. It costs as much as Devco and lasts half as long.

You can't say that of the hundreds of painters that are wasting the money of property-owners. They cost all the way up to double Devco, and last—the worst a few weeks or months, the best of them, maybe, like lead-and-oil.

Lead-and-oil itself is a waste, because it lasts only three years. Devco lasts as good for six.

and refreshments served to make it a joyous occasion.

The picture program was also one of the best of the season, many saying that it was the best ever shown at this house. This program will be given for the last time today and will be followed tomorrow with one of the greatest American features ever produced, the photograph of nature's own nobleman, "The Life of Buffalo Bill," replete with thrills and incidents that outstrip the wildest dreams of writers of fiction, all superbly reproduced in three parts, one of the most remarkable moving pictures ever presented on the screen. It shows 100 real Indians, 300 persons in all. Wednesday afternoon will be a special children's matinee, giving every child in Rockland a chance to see the great American scout from his boyhood days up. Special matinee prices to every boy and girl in the city, 5 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haskell of Brookline, Mass., have been spending a few days at Mr. Haskell's former home in this city.

Mrs. Helen Stanley of South Portland visited friends in this city and at the Head-of-the-Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Maxcy and son Horace are spending the week in Portland and Boston.

Among the delightful social events of the vacation season was the "Home" given by Mrs. F. B. Adams and Mrs. Henry B. Bird at the latter's beautiful home on Broadway from 3 to 5 Friday afternoon. The guests numbered about 60. With Mrs. Bird and Mrs. Adams in the receiving line were Mrs. Ernest B. Young of Boston and Mrs. George Reed of Lexington, Mass. The living room was decorated with a very bright picture. The color scheme of the dining room was pink, produced by sweet peas and dahlias.

Mrs. A. T. Blackington poured, in the sun parlor shelter, was served by Mrs. C. H. Duff, assisted by Mrs. George Gay, Mrs. A. W. Foss, Miss Emily Edwards of Jackson, Mich., Miss Florence White of Farmington, Mrs. Roberta Stubbs, Miss Constance Reed of Lexington, and Miss Helen Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rhodes, who have been the guests of Mrs. Rhodes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Young, the past fortnight, returned to Boston Saturday.

Friday Miss Gladys Bowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bowley at the Highlands celebrated her 12th birthday. As each new arrival appeared the little hostess was the recipient of some little token of love. Mrs. Bowley surprised the children by placing upon the table with other goodies two birthday cakes containing pieces of money. Miss Lois Ross and Miss Mildred Heckbert were the lucky little ones to find the silver. Games dear to the hearts of childhood were played, and so quickly and merrily did the time pass that some of the little ones, forgetting that the invitation read "from until five," heard the clock strike eight before it occurred to them that the goodbyes must be said. Miss Gladys proved a charming little hostess. Those present were: Adella Crosby, Edna Dean, Carrie Clough, Leon Dean, Sadie Tripp, Angie Daggett, Anna Henderson, Lois Ross, Mildred Heckbert, Emily Frost, Vernon Hart and Gladys Bowley.

Mrs. Ernest Young, who has been spending a few days in town, returned to Matineus today. Her daughter, Miss Hazel Young, who accompanied her to this city, left Monday for Northfield, Mass., where she will attend the Northfield Seminary.

Mrs. Lewis Albee of Bass Harbor visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. O. B. Crockett last week. She was accompanied on her return by Mrs. Crockett, who will visit at Bass Harbor and Bar Harbor.

Miss Marjorie Sparrow of Chestnut Hill, Mass., is visiting Miss Mabel Snow, Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Files have been visiting this week at W. D. Holbrook's. It is eight years since Mr. Files was here. He is one of our former residents whom it is delightful to meet, as he is so genuinely happy to see old friends and has so many jolly reminiscences of old times to enjoy.

Mrs. Anson Sykes and son Richard of Penmarck Harbor are guests of Mrs. Sykes' aunt, Mrs. Ruth C. Wright, and other relatives in Warren.

Card of Thanks
We wish to express our sincere thanks to the friends and neighbors who were so kind to us in our late bereavement in the loss of husband, father and brother; also to the brother employees who showed their sympathy in many ways.

McDonald's Home Run

Won For Thomaston the Best Amateur Game In Recent Years--Warren Old Timers Victorious.

Playing for a purse of $100 on the Broadway ground, Friday afternoon, Thomaston defeated Rockland 5 to 4 in one of the best amateur contests ever waged on that field.

Rockland held a 2 to 0 lead up to the 6th inning, and from that time until the end of the game the big crowd was kept in a state of suspense that was very trying to weak hearts. Three home runs figured in this game of bat and ball, and the first was made by the long-limbed hero from Warren, named Brown, and was the first real glimmer of hope that shone athwart the vision of the Thomaston supporters. The second was made by Weeks, and was probably the longest swat that has been made on the Broadway ground.

Errors and seven hits. Thomaston batted for a total of 14 bases and Rockland for a total of 13.

Aside from the long hits it was a pitchers' battle. The honors go to Frisbie on the strength of his 11 strikeouts, but Flint was heaving them over in a manner that tried the nerves of Gay's gallant batsmen.

The game was umpired by John Carrigan of Lewiston, a brother of Catcher Carrigan of the Red Sox. Will Robinson of Warren and Arthur Patterson of Vinalhaven were originally selected for the undertaking, but Mr. Robinson declined, and it was finally decided to have a man from outside of the county. Manager Pearson of the Thomaston team suggested Carrigan and Rockland expressed its complete willingness to accept the arrangement.

Rockland had the advantage in the first inning by suggesting that George Mathews of Thomaston be named as umpire.

John Carrigan has done considerable umpiring over the state this season and is well known to the sporting fraternity having played baseball and polo for a number of years. His last previous visit here was with the Lewiston Volunteers baseball team about a dozen years ago. His umpiring Friday was entirely satisfactory to all concerned and it was his good fortune not to be called upon to make any close decisions.

Following is a review of the great game by innings.

First—Louraine, Bartlett and Weeks fanned in succession. Peabody dropped the third strike on out. Brown to Newhall, and Arthur Richardson flied to Frisbie. Enter Thomaston! The long limbed Brown clouts the ball over left field fence and makes the circuit of the bases leisurely, for the ground rules make a home run whether the ball is fielded back into the diamond or not. Re-enter the cowbell. Black, Gay and Flint and Lamb are easy outs to Fuller, Flint and Lamb. Score, Rockland 2, Thomaston 1.

Seventh—Woeful inning for Rockland. Lamb struck out and Austin Richardson follows suit. Rokes hit the fly just as it was going to slam against the fence. This was one of the prettiest plays in the game. H. McDonald singled, and Weeks fumbled Peabody's grounder. A wild pitch advanced the two basemen. Newhall, with the chance of a lifetime popped up a fly to Weeks. Frisbie singled to short left field, scoring H. McDonald. Bartlett fumbled the ball and finally tossed it to second while Peabody sped home with the run which cost Rockland its chance for the game. Talk about your cowbell! Tenney hit a high foul, which Fuller caught so close to the rope that he fell over it, still clutching the double, while Richardson trots across the plate with the first run in the game. Cowbell very silent. Black took care of Bartlett's grounder, and Thomaston went to bat. Weeks took care of Gay, and Fuller disposed of Tenney. Brown was passed, but Fifth—Weeks was patient, and pedestrianized. The hit stole home base in broad daylight. Fuller fanned. Arthur Richardson singled to left field, and Weeks came home on Roger's fumble. Lamb and Austin Richardson succumbed to Frisbie's cunning. Lamb made a beautiful stop of Gay's grounder and south-pawed the sphere to Fuller before the Thomaston captain could reach first. A. McDonald flied to Bartlett. H. McDonald singled, but was left on first when Peabody flied to Weeks. Score, Rockland 2, Thomaston 0.

Good Roads Bond Issue

How The Matter Now Stands—Let Everybody Vote "Yes" For The Great Improvement.

At the State election September 9, the voters will have an opportunity to vote "Yes" or "No" upon a proposed amendment to the constitution relating to good roads. It is important that the people of this State thoroughly understand this question, and although it is a very simple one, some misunderstanding may exist concerning it.

The Legislature at its special session in March voted by an overwhelming majority in the House and unanimously in the Senate to submit an amendment to the Constitution which means in substance this: That if the majority of the voters next September vote "Yes," then the Legislature at some future date will have the power, if it sees fit to exercise it, to issue bonds, not in excess of $2,000,000, and the money derived from the sale of these bonds must be devoted solely to the building and maintaining of highways, and further, more the expenditure of such money must be divided equitably among the several counties. Every voter regardless of politics who wants better roads in the State of Maine, for hauling the products of the farm to the railway station, or getting supplies from the village, and every voter who desires to make Maine the greatest summer tourist State in the Union, should vote "Yes" on this amendment.

This State bond issue idea was first suggested by myself at a good roads meeting held in January last. It was stated at that time, and it was also shown by Governor Plaisted in his address to the special session of the Legislature that this bond issue of $2,000,000 will be paid principal and interest without increasing the tax on the citizens of the State a single dollar. It is important for everyone to keep this clearly in mind.

The Legislature of 1911 passed a law which went into effect, January, 1912, placing a large license fee or tax upon every automobile or motor vehicle owned and operated in the State of Maine. That law has just begun to be collected and will amount this year to at least $120,000. Under the law it cannot be used for any other than highway purposes. It must be expended on the roads. This law is different from any other levied by the State in that it is devoted to this distinct purpose. All other taxes go into the common fund. The automobile tax does not go into the common fund but becomes, as already said, a special fund for highway purposes only. Now, instead of expending that $120,000 each year scattering it about over the State in small amounts insufficient to accomplish any great work in road building, it is proposed that this permanent income be capitalized so that instead of $120,000 next year, the Legislature may have $500,000, or $1,000,000, or $2,000,000 (but not more than that) to expend on highways.

Everyone knows that a wholesale purchase costs less than a retail purchase. The State can build 100 miles of roads much cheaper per mile than it can build to miles of roads. By borrowing a large sum of money as indicated above, the people of this State will make an enormous saving in the building of highways and it will thus accomplish in one or two years more than could possibly be accomplished in 15 or 20 years by simply using the automobile income from year to year. The amendment distinctly states that the proposed bonds shall not pay over 4 per cent interest. It is not to be supposed

WHAT CONGRESS DID

The important work of the second session of the Sixty-Second Congress which adjourned last week may be summarized as follows:

The establishment of a trial parcels post system and the creation of a commission to watch this experiment with the view of recommending further legislation.

Creation of a new bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor which is to be devoted entirely to the welfare of the children of the country.

Substantial increase in pensions for survivors of the Civil War.

Fixing eight hours as the legal work day on all Government work.

Fixing the tolls to be charged for the passage of ships through the Panama Canal, granting free passage through the canal of American-owned ships engaged in the coastwise trade, divorcing railroads from the ownership of steamships, and providing for the operation of the canal after it shall be completed.

Submission to the Legislatures of the several States of a constitutional amendment providing for the direct election by the people of the United States senators.

Abolition of the Tariff Board established two years ago at the request of President Taft.

Ejection from the Senate of William Lorimer of Illinois on the ground that his election was brought about through bribery.

Bringing of impeachment proceedings against Judge Robert W. Archibald of the United States Commerce Committee.

Provision for one battleship, ship to be the largest ordered up to this time by any nation.

The killing by unfriendly amendments of the arbitration treaties between the United States and Great Britain and the United States and France.

Authorization for Government employees to join associations or labor unions if they desire to do so.

The commitment of the Federal Government to the policy of assisting in the construction of roads by the appropriation of $500,000. For the building of experimental roads, and by the creation of a commission to plan further Federal aid.

Increase in the salaries of rural mail carriers to $100.

Requiring newspapers that are carried by the mails to contain once a year a list of the stockholders in such papers and requiring every daily newspaper to print a daily circulation of the statement.

TO SUBSCRIBERS

A very generous response has come to The Courier-Gazette's campaign for bringing its subscription list to the current year. We hope for a continuation of this kindly interest manifested by patrons of the paper, to the end that every account may speedily become properly adjusted.

Will subscribers who have remitted or may remit please watch the date printed on the right hand margin of the paper or the wrapper in which it is mailed. If the date is not changed to conform with the sum remitted please notify the office. Great care is taken that no error may occur, but in making so many changes mistakes are not altogether unavoidable.

Brass Has an Odor Yet Copper and Zinc Separately Have Not.

Brass, as every one knows, has an awful odor, yet the two things of which brass consists, zinc and copper, give no odor whatever in their separate states. This is a problem that has given a great deal of work to scientists. It is one as yet not entirely solved.

To arrive at the general law it has been found that almost all alloys, or mixtures of two metals, will give an odor, while the metals themselves do not. Brass is not the single example, though probably the most odiferous.

The explanation is as follows: All substances, including metals, are always giving off small particles of their substance to the air—that is, evaporating. Some solids give these off so rapidly as soon to disappear. Gum camphor is a conspicuous example. To smell any substance a particle of that substance has to be a nerve ending in the nose. If a small particle of copper, we shall say, does this by itself, no effect is noticed, but if a particle of zinc and a particle of copper strike at the same time the effect is such as to cause a perceptible impulse to the nerve. The chance for these two to strike at the same time is given only when they are intimately mixed in an alloy.—New York Tribune.

Antoine Deloria, Postmaster at Gardiner, Mich., knows the exact facts when he speaks of the curative value of Foley Kidney Pills. He says: "From my own experience I recommend Foley Kidney Pills, as a great remedy for kidney trouble. My father was cured of kidney disease and a good many of my neighbors were cured by Foley Kidney Pills."

Life At Camp Medomak

Detailing the Delightful Manner In Which Seventy Boys Spend the Summer Time.

"Who are all these boys and where are they going?" was a question eight years ago at the station in Union. The next year more boys arrived at the station and the same question was repeated. But this year people were expecting to see 70 boys arrive at the station on their way to Medomak Camp for boys in the town of Washington.

This camp is under the direction of Frank E. Poland, who organized the plans in 1903, and it is steadily increasing in membership and progress. Mr. Poland was educated in the schools of Washington, Me.; then took a business course in Augusta, and later graduated from the Castine Normal school. He was principal of a grammar school five years in Dover, N. H. Then he held a similar position four years in Melrose, Mass. He is now principal of the Daniels' school in the village of Medomak, having 15 teachers and 700 pupils under his charge.

Eight years ago Mr. Poland saw the good he could do by using his father's abandoned farm house as a camp for boys. Here stood the old Poland house that might be utilized, as Alfred Poland had left the old homestead and lives in a modern home in the village of Medomak.

This house has been in the Poland family for five generations and is the oldest in Washington.

His history is interesting. Frank Poland's great-grandparents, the Polands, came from Chelsea, Mass., on horseback in the latter part of the 18th century, picking their way through the wilderness by spotted trees. They had purchased their farm and built a log house the first thing after their arrival. The old cellar is still to be seen. They used the log house but a few years, when they built a framed house, which is now Medomak Camp, situated on a high hill, commanding a fine view over Medomak lake, meadows and a chain of mountains to the westward. The old hewn timbers of this house are standing staunch and strong.

Around this old homestead lingers many a story. When the great-grandfather saw the need of breaking the land early in the spring, he yoked a team and plowed the land to Chelsea, Mass., and brought back an Irishman to work beside an ox to plow the land. A long yoke was made—the ox held his end of the yoke with a bow, while the Irishman held the other end of the yoke in his hands—thus the first land was ploughed on the Poland farm, over which two of the best tennis courts in Knox county now extend, and where baseball grounds and other sports are carried on.

During the absence of the great-grandfather in Massachusetts his wife became alarmed at a noise on the shore of the lake, fearing it might be Indians. She grasped the baby and fled to the cellar of the log cabin and remained there two days and two nights. The noise was made by the Indians who always visit that lake about the time the ice is breaking up.

This great-grandmother ate an apple that came from Chelsea, Mass., and from that seed from which sprang an apple tree and grew. That same tree is still there, bent over to the ground but the sprouts starting are to be guarded with care.

The wonder of Frank Poland desired to put this old homestead to some good purpose, even if business called his parents and himself away.

Camp Medomak received its name from the lake and the river flowing through Washington.

The strong foundation for a helpful organization to assist boys in their eight weeks' summer vacation was the idea which inspired Mr. Poland to put it in his own words:

"To have a vigorous body, sound health, and a clean mind; to enjoy to the utmost all games and sports; to know the birds, the insects, the flowers, and the plants of the right kind; to be friendly; to live in the open air; to be ever changing aspects of nature; to be truthful, manly and thoughtful of others; to have the companionship of the right kind of boys, and the inspiration of men worthy to shape boyish ideals—this is boyhood at its best. This we offer you as the ideal solution of the vacation problem."

The aim of this camp is to develop

Climate Failed;
Medicine Effective

It has been absolutely shown that fresh air and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But it must be admitted that the disease is seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alternative is a medicine made for the treatment of Tuberculosis. It has countered the disease again and again. Often these benefits have been effected where the patient has been given no other recovery resulted. Now we argue that Eckman's Alternative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need. A remarkable case follows:

Gentlemen: Through Eckman's Alternative I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken very much affected; my stomach came very much affected; my stomach was examined and Tuberculosis bacilli were found. I was then given medicine, but it did not do me any good. I was advised to go to Fort Worth, Texas, where I was to be treated in the right lung, and I was discharged. I grew worse and became very much emaciated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas, June 21 and arrived in Canon City, June 26. My physician informed me that I was to be treated in the right lung, and I was discharged. I grew worse and became very much emaciated.
